Cyber Resilience and Awareness Package for Local Government

Enex Carbon Information Security Consulting

Is your organisation prepared? According to the Australian Crime Commission (ACC) Cybercrime will continue to be one of the top threats for businesses in 2017.

You've probably heard about cybercrime, but you might not know that thousands of organisations are at risk from cyber criminals without knowing it.

Organisations need to put effort behind influencing and encouraging employees to be safe online, because employees and contractors, in many industries spend a lot of their time using computers and accessing data.

Our program helps to educate employees about the destructive cybercrime activities that occur around the clock, every day of the year. As more and more sensitive data breaches are making headlines, organisations must act to mitigate the risk of a security event occurring.

After completion of the program, employees will understand:

- Why social media use can heighten security risks
- The common scams criminals use to hack into corporate networks and breach information security
- Simple ways to be safe online at work, and home

Contact us today to learn more about our engaging cyber security awareness program and how it can integrate with your existing council compliance requirements.
